'I'm the slime oozing out of your TV-set.' - Frank Zappa

On a Sunday afternoon...

... in 2000 I was enjoying the prospect of going to our monthly Sunday night. With a group of friends we would normally get together to meditate, eat the delicious meals our hostess made for us, have fun and enthusiastically share about each others work in different fields of alternative therapy. But this one turned out to be quite different... Just before dinner our host mentioned something he was upset about (he has a young son who watches TV...); he had found some sort of hidden messages in two different television programs. He showed it to us at normal speed and it seemed just a blur. He then slowed it down so we could see what was actually there.

And we were shocked. So shocked that we underestimated the impact it had on ourselves – despite all our combined professional knowledge and extensive experience. The rest of the evening was a disaster. We argued up to the point that some people almost ran away. This never happened before and it proved to be our last Sunday evening together. Later we suddenly realized this might have had something to do with the messages on the video tape.

What are children consuming unwantedly while they are watching TV and what effect can this have on them? This appears to be much more than discussions on violence in TV programs indicate. The book Friendship with God

Huib Kraaijeveld works as an EMF Balancing Technique practitioner and does Journey's with children - amongst others things in businesses. He aims to focus the public attention to ongoing mass manipulation and the complete public unawareness of it. This manipulation happens through subliminal messages, also in TV programs for children.

includes an interesting little dialogue on this subject: "(Walsch) Entertainment industry executives deny that TV, movie, and video images, however violent, are responsible for young people's violent behavior." (God:) "Are these the same executives that sell Super Bowl commercials for a half-million dollars apiece, claiming that they can influence behaviors in sixty seconds?" [1] Yet this influence can already take place in sixteen or even three seconds, as you will see. If you value your children's and your own freedom, the information in this article might be important to you. See for yourself.

The first findings were made in an erotic program is called Adult Television Entertainment, an American production broadcasted and repeated by the TV-station SBS6 in the Netherlands around 1999-2001. It also appears to have been broadcasted in Luxembourg and the UK. This is the period in which George W. Bush came to power and declared the "War on Terrorism".

Turning the world upside down

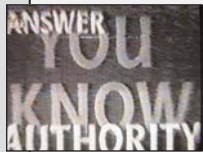

This is the explanation of a selection of hidden messages from Adult Television Entertainment. It covers those which seem most important for parents. In total we found 76 images with texts in a black and white 'flash' that lasted 3,2 seconds in 'real' time. [2].

It is remarkable that the whole series is full of reversals. This not only shows that the makers are very professional, but only that it gives a clear hint to their origin and interests. It appears to be a blueprint of international developments after September 11, 2001 - the day the world was turned upside down.

The first message in the series is Love is Hate. This message is projected across a naked lady. This combination alone gives a new right for existence for the feminist movement. Yet it surpasses unfriendliness towards women, since this message affects men and children – even animals, nature and our planet. By equaling love and hate (the ultimate opposites) the roots of all relationships are affected. Love is the foundation of our social behavior. It is essential for a healthy development from baby to adult.

The second picture shows the text EVERYTHING YOU KNOW IS WRONG; order chaos. Below "you know" you'll see another opposite: order and chaos. I interpret this as: everything you think you know about order and chaos is wrong / incorrect. This indicates that chaos is not meant to be prevented, but instead to be promoted. The people behind this programming appear to have their interests in chaos. It could be a hint toward the 'New World Order', mentioned for the first time by George Bush sr. during the first Gulf War. Its Latin name, "Novus Ordo Seclorum", can be found on the 1 $-bill, below the image of the pyramid with the "All Seeing Eye". Critics claim that this New World Order (NWO) is founded on a fascist ideology, and is forwarding her agenda by actively creating worldwide chaos.

ANSWER AUTHORITY is a continuation of 'everything you know is wrong'. Everything you know is wrong – allow the authorities to dictate your thoughts, opinions and behavior. The Webster dictionary offers an interesting definition of authority: 'the power to influence of direct thoughts, opinions or behavior'. Looking at the graphics of 'beLIEve WHAT YOU ARE TOLD' it is interesting to notice what happens typographically in the word 'believe': by putting the middle three letters in capitals the verb '(to) lie' or the noun 'lie' is created. In this sense this message has a double meaning: 'believe what you are told' and 'believe the lie you are told'. Especially when combined with the message 'You want TRUTH but you need LIES', this indicates that the official 'truth', as propagated through the media, is just straightforward propaganda.

And 'vote FREEDOM is a MYTH' strengthens that suspicion. Normally the right to vote is seen as a symbol of freedom and democracy. Here this is denied.

In that same period we discovered equal subliminal messages in a trailer broadcasted by KETNET (BRT: the Belgium national television broadcast) before a Walt Disney cartoon. This children's program of the BRT can be received on the Dutch cable. It is not completely clear who edited these images. It appears that the KETNET logo was edited on top of the subliminals. If this is true, Disney's motto "We want to make people happy" gets something sinister. This time symbols were used. Symbolic language is a universal language, so it does not matter what verbal language

The message 'Baby, Baby (...) Grab what you can – Do it Now – Now is the Time' seems to reflect the enormous stockmarket scandels of recent years. This message seems to aim to get children to embrace this attitude as young as possible. Apparently we are supposed to participate in the culture of the 'haves' from an early age (baby, baby).

Visually something also happens: the graphic in the background of the first image looks like the letter "e". Looking more closely at the series, you can see in picture 7 of this series that it involves a diverging spiral. Again this is a reversal, since earlier in the series a spiral can be found which sucks the viewer into a tunnel (a symbol for hypnosis). Now the image starts at the end of the tunnel, and turns from the inside to the outside.

WE WE we WE We We are DEAD, ELVIS is ALIVE again is an indication that these texts reverse everything, and turn the world upside down. This specific programming refers to the late Elvis Presley. The play of lines in the background is aggressive – and again reversed.

The next picture (middle) seems to represent reversed pentagrams. When an ordinary pentagram (a five-cornered shape, left picture) is reversed it becomes a satanic symbol (right picture). It is not unusual to leave out part of the lines in the representation of geometrical shapes. The origin will remain recognizable for 'initiates'. The text than indicates that the world is being controlled by Satanists. It is well known that 'reversal' – and this series is full of that – is a trademark of Satanism: reversal of meaning (like 'love' and 'hate') as well as symbols. The best-known example of this is the Swastika. The Swastika is originally an Eastern symbol, meaning harmony, good, strength and unity. The Nazi's – in its core a satanic sect – exported it to the West and reversed the symbol as well as its meaning.

When a Palestinian, an Iraqi or a supposed Al Qaida fighter causes an explosion, he is called a 'terrorist'. When Afghanistan or Iraq is being bombarded to pieces however, the message is that this serves the protection of our freedom (reversal: attack is defense). 'Bombs keep us free' is war propaganda to make us believe that 'bombarding others is necessary for our freedom and democracy'.

And finally 'Watch more TV'; a blatant command. TV will become even more addictive than it already is. Or maybe it has become so addictive because of this kind of subliminal programming of the unconsciousness.

children are raised in - they'll get the programming. [3]

Does this brainwashing have any relation to the zombie-like state, aggressiveness, fatigue and development problems most children are experiencing nowadays? Personally I have the strong impression that these two findings are only a fraction of the full scale strategy. The fact alone that we found these messages, that are supposed to be hidden, indicates something. We ourselves do not have the time nor the equipment to check every program broadcasted - which does not make much sense to me either. I do see a new trend of more and faster 'flashing' trailers in TV programs. MTV is setting this trend. According to insiders this has something to do with the increasing number of 'beats per minute' (BPM) in modern pop music. That may be so, yet they also offer a great cover for these types of hidden messages. The executive of SBS Broadcasting, with whom I made an appointment, stated he was shocked by what we found. Yet the executive responsible for buying ATE immediately became cynical and claimed this was a 'sick joke' performed by a lonely editor. Who has the power to structurally get this kind of edits into various programs of different broadcasters? And who profits from a world population believing these hidden messages? See for yourself, but realize that mass manipulation can only work when it goes far beyond what people can imagine .... In the rest of this article the effectiveness of subliminal programming is further explained. Also a broader context is given in order to understand better what we found and what that means. References to the global politics and creating confusion through increasing fear are made on purpose.

How are subliminal messages effective?

Some people may have heard of NLP – Neuro Linguistic Programming. It "studies the structure of how human beings think and experience the world. Obviously, the structure of something so subjective does not lend itself to precise, statistical formulae but instead leads to models of how these things work. From these models, techniques for quickly and effectively changing thoughts, behaviors and beliefs that limit you have been developed." [1] This sort of knowledge can of course be used for different purposes. I use it in daily work as an EMF-practitioner [2] or as a business facilitator, for example to suit the way somebody's processing information. NLP is used in all kinds of therapies. Brandon

Brainwashing on KETNET

This is the explanation of a small selection of the images we found in the KETNET trailer. As well as in de ATE-subliminal the method used is reversal, executed by someone very well educated in techniques for Mind Control.

The first series of images shows diverse labels for washing clothes:

- ironing
- a letter P in a circle: do not wash this garment yourself
- to be washed at a maximum of 30 degrees (Celsius)
- do not clean chemically (again with sign reversed)

Then a puppet appears, standing with his arms spread out in a circle. In a series of five images you'll see this little man making a turn, just until it is standing literally upside down. It took me some time to study this, but then its meaning dawned to me. This is the visualization of someone being brainwashed in a washing machine, according to a specific (brain) wash program. The specific sign for cleaning wool refers to the providers of wool: sheep. Since no woolen sweater is being washed in the machine, but a human being, this sign here refers to people. People as obedient sheep. Sheeple. Their reality is being turned upside down by this program. I am almost certain that the intention behind this sequence is to graphically depict the concept of brainwashing.

Two other sequences: the first consists of three images picturing a smiling face changing into a sad face. In other words: the child loses its happiness and becomes sad, angry and frustrated. The second sequence consists of seven images in which the yin-yang sign is being reversed. To be brief about this: this Eastern symbol has meanings like balance and harmony. A disturbed balance can lead to 'dis-eases'. At the end of the sequence the sign is completely reversed. In combination with the other sequences, one can draw the conclusion that brainwashing leads to a disturbance of balance and affects the mood of children negatively.

The next series of images begins with a bird sitting on a flower. It holds a banner in its mouth with the word 'Love' on it. The innocence of it changes quickly. The following images on the lower right side appear in this order:

- a magnetic field
- a burning cigarette
- a skull with two crossed bones beneath it
- a symbol of a tumble dryer
- a turning spool / tape
- a danger triangle
- a symbol of a car alarm signal
- a reversed battery (the positive and the negative poles have been shifted)
- a hammer and sickle (the symbol of the former USSR ; ordinary and again reversed).

The moment the skull appears the bird loses the 'love' banner. At the end of the series the bird has also lost its wings (=freedom).

Bays' Journey [3] is a wonderful example of how NLP is used for healing the physical body and emotional traumas.

Experiments in schools showed that children who did self-esteem tests on paper imprinted with the hidden message 'you are loved' scored 15% better than those who had regular paper. Underachievers even scored an average of 34,7% higher than they normally did. [4] This may sound like a great solution for all sorts of educational problems. Yet think about how children become insecure in the first place. Through exactly the same manipulation technique, greatly reinforced by their parents and teachers, children are made to believe they are small, insignificant and need to prove themselves in tests to deserve love and recognition. Still, this article deals with something else than just conflicting theories on how to raise children.

Techniques like NLP are not only used for 'personal development' reasons by e.g. sales people and politicians, for whom this is part of their standard training. [5] The powers of NLP are also used in other ways. A wellknown example of how it is misused by a producer of consumer goods to increase their sales is Coca Cola, who was fined for putting the sentence "I'm thirsty" on the screen in cinema breaks to stimulate their soft drink sales. [14] There are many tapes for sale the promise the buyer better concentration, more memory storage or more selfconfidence through the use of positive affirmations. On the Internet you can even order New Age music guarantying the buyer that within ten minutes you'll get sex with whomever you expose this music to, because of thousands of hidden messages that "arouses their sexual excitement aimed solely at you". If this works, this means that somebody can be manipulated into having sex without their own awareness (while believing it's because of their free will).

Although it is widely believed the subliminals have little effect on human behaviour, more than 500 scientific papers

The next sequence of 20 images again begins with an innocent picture: a flower with a 'peace' banner on it. In the lower right corner a pictogram of a male and female standing hand in hand appears. N.B. the similarity with the pictograms used at Dancevalley (see later in this article) is astounding. Then the letters of 'peace' (except the 'p'), and the flower petals have disappeared.

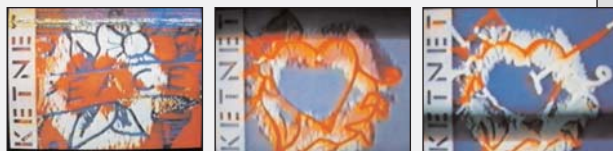

Then a series of larger images appear in this order (see above):

- a burning cigarette (3x)
- a skull with two crossed bones (the pirate flag, yet also the symbol of the secret society Skull & Bones society [4]. . Bush jr., Bush sr. as well as the current Democratic candidate for the US presidency John Kerry are members of this society. Coincidence?)
- a danger triangle
- a battery with positive and negative poles (3x). In the third image the reversal is complete: negative has become positive and positive negative. (This is the same theme as in the ATE subliminals: good has become bad and love hate)
- a hammer and sickle (2x)
- the male and female separated, on a bloodred background. My first impression was that the sickle was used as a weapon and blood had been shed. This interpretation is possible, but I cannot be sure of that. In a later image the couple is together again, only to be followed by another skull.

The next sequence consists of eleven images with a variety of hands / hand prints. Three images attract extra attention. Especially the hand with three fingers closed, but with extracted small and index fingers. This is the Satanic sign that is called the 'Devil's horn'. It is also used in some hard rock scenes as a signal for welcome. In the picture below Bush is executing this sign in his election campaign in 2000. The other two images depict hands with holes in them. 'Having a hole in one's hand' is an expression used for the inability to handle money wisely, to spend more than one can afford. It reminds me very much on the programming in the ATE-subliminals: "Baby, baby grab what you can, do it now."

The last sequence contains eight images. Again the flower with the 'peace' banner appears. The flower loses its leaves. A blood red arrow is being shot in a heart.

End of movie.

Children: goodnight, Parents: wake up.

Albert Toby [5]

have been published confirming the effectiveness of subliminals [16] . The independency of these research sources strengthens their credibility. Science is increasingly used to support very doubtful 'truths'. A good example of this is the medical field, in which pharmaceutical companies with huge commercial interests have no particular need for any objective truth. This is easily achieved: many research funds only become available when the outcomes are agreed on beforehand. And life is made miserable for those who reveal parts of the truth. Subliminal programming is not some new fashion. The knowledge of subliminal programming goes back to ancient times with scholars like Plato and Aristotle mentioning the phenomenon. Subliminal means 'below threshold' because the messages are communicated at a level that the conscious mind doesn't register, but the subconscious certainly does. Technically this is done by including one picture into a set of 24 per second that make a moving picture look like more than a slideshow of still pictures. Producers of movies like The Exorcist and The Texas Chainsaw Massacre have publicly admitted that they contained violent and frightening subliminals. The use of subliminals is supposed to be illegal in some countries and the Alcohol, Tobacco & Firearms (ATF) in the United States says that subliminals are inherently deceptive because the consumer does not perceive them at a normal level of awareness and is given no choice whether to accept or reject the message. Funny then that nothing is done about the subliminals that abound in advertising or about political campaigns in which this manipulation techniques are used on a wide scale – according to David Icke (see frame). An example of this can be found in the image below. It is the subliminal implant of RATS in a Bush commercial attacking Al Gore in the 2000 'election' campaign. The word RATS in 'democrats' is highlighted by capitals: democRATS. These commercials are very expensive and are being made by the best advertising agencies. Therefore you can assume that they knew what they were doing and that this technique works. It was not subliminal enough and could be seen by slightly slowing down the tape[8]. This was exactly the same way how Albert found out about the messages on KETNET and SBS6.

But how can this work, if we can't see it?

The picture carries a very clear subliminal message, or at least when it's pointed out... Can you see it? Apparently about five percent of the people see the subliminal word at first sight and the rest are amazed when it is made clear for them. If you haven't seen it, look at the white areas and not the plants. Your eyes go to the plants, but it is most often in the background that subliminals are posted. Do you see the word SEX now? Techniques for mind control are effective as long as they trigger some hidden part in human subconscious. So, the more repressed you are sexually, the more attracted you will be to the flower picture. In a country where homosexuality is taboo, a penis will attract males' attention subconsciously. Subliminal pictured phalluses were for example found in ads for male clothing. When you are influenced by subliminal manipulation like this in making a choice in comparable consumer goods, this phenomenon is called 'deception'. 'Well, commercial interests may even be a childish goal to trick someone into making a choice. Although, looking at the message 'bombs keep us free', I can't help thinking about the American Defense Budget that has raised to a new height of more than 375 trillion dollars since 9/11. But it appears there is a even more hidden agenda than a commercial one that is forwarded by this kind of manipulation ....

This agenda can be easily discovered when you keep in mind how hypnosis works. Hypnosis as a technique is neutral – like NLP one can use this for therapeutical, entertainment, and for evil purposes. Hypnosis affects people on a level where resistance is low. So the influence of external programming is higher. By repeating a message a frame of reference can be changed or created. An example of this is the human taste. In popular forms of 'stage-hypnosis' someone can eat a lemon and claim it is sweet. The messages that have bombarded us through the media these last years have been "Bin Laden did it", "Irak has

After a career as a professional soccer player, sports commentator at the BBC and spokesman of the British Green Party, David Icke has become a widely known controversial author. He has written six books in which he reveals the systematic lies, methods of manipulation, and hidden agenda behind world politics.

A long time before September 11 he predicted that Bush would come into power and be known as a 'war president'. Furthermore he not only predicted an event of WTC-magnitude, but also the draconian laws that would be pushed through Congress as a result of that - in the name of 'National Security'.

In his penultimate book, Alice in Wonderland & the WTC disaster – why the official story is a monumental lie [19], he looks at the official 'truth' from an interesting and very different perspective.

weapons of mass destruction" and "America liberates the Iraqi people". The proof for these claims is missing, yet - just like with the sweet lemon - they appear to be true. And even when in hindsight the opposite is been proven, like with the Iraqi weapons of mass destruction, the intention behind spreading this message is not questioned. "The world is safer without Saddam." The rest of the sentence is been left unsaid: "...and as long as you believe this message, we will stay in Iraq, exploit its oil resources and give huge construction contracts to the very same business partners that delivered us the bombs to demolish Iraq in the first place." This appears a kind of divide-and-rule politics unprecedented in (known) world history. But I guess by now you understand that the truth is seldom the same as the opinion of the majority.

For parents another way to create a new frame of reference might be more relevant. This concerns an image created by the Dutch media aiming at the willingness of parents to have their children vaccinated. Recently one of the standard Dutch vaccinations was in the news, because it was claimed it causes paralysis in children. Yet, the media try to paint a new image. Parents who refuse to have their children vaccinated are being projected as irresponsible parents, who risk losing their children to diseases and do not care about it. By the use of this image a deep human fear is triggered. Social pressure will also try and push parents into complying. However, the proof of the advantages and innocence of vaccinations is very doubtful [20]. In this way different phenomena are being confused (no vaccination = death = bad & fear = control = good), while the impression is being given that this confusion is correct. In relation to this I find it remarkable that no press or public attention was given to the commotion about the genetic database of the Dutch government. When this was unveiled, parents could ask for the data on their children to be destroyed. But how is that possible, when the database was claimed to be 'anonymous'?

As Douglas Adams once said, television does not exist to deliver programs to its audiences, but to deliver audiences to its advertisers. [12] We might somehow know or feel that when we look at another annoying advertisement for washing powder. Yet, this is still something else than getting our free will delivered – without us knowing that - to whomever wish to control and manipulate that. I call that fascism.

Break the enchantment

If only some percent of this mass manipulation through the media is true, it seems important for you to know this as parents – but also for yourself as a human being. Then it is also important to know that this hypnotic spell on you and your children can easily be broken. Our collective human subconscious is undergoing a bombardment of all kinds of hidden messages, through more than TV alone. By triggering common fears, like the fear for danger, shortage, death, diseases or the social fear to be ejected by the herd, these kinds of messages impact human behaviour deeply. These instincts are seated in our R-(reptilian) brain, the deepest part of our brain near the brain stem. When these instincts are triggered externally neither our will nor our intellect has any influence on them. They work automatically and that is why this kind of manipulation is so effective.

This article has aimed to proof that subliminal manipulation through television is not some farfetched (conspiracy) theory [22], but reality. We deliver proof that implies that we are being scared constantly and on purpose. I do hope this article creates a momentum to stop practices like this. It would be great if you could activate your own channels, so that governments are forced to respond to this. Yet, this is not enough: to me it seems unwise to just ask for the authorities to 'do something about it', and by doing so putting the whole responsibility in their hands and the hands of the legal system. The legal system spends most of its energy to maintain itself, not to create a more just society [23]. And is the government acting on behalf of its citizens? Why then do they support wars that the majority of the people is opposed to? For example, the Dutch statesman Hoogervorst is now creating new black-and-white images of alternative health care by calling all homeopathic doctors 'quackery'. But still, the actions of individual people can indeed make a difference – especially when there are many!

I can imagine you can have different reactions after reading this article. These first two are the most logical: to be frightened or to not let it in. If you are experiencing this first reaction it helps to breathe deeply a couple of times; adding even more fear does not help. If you have the second reaction a little riddle might be useful. Who said this? 'An

Dancevalley 2001

An enthusiastic nephew of mine urged me and my partner Ellen to go to Dancevalley 2001. As the final act the English formation Orbital was on the program. The famous laser show alone would make the visit to this festival worthwhile. The full moon added to the great ambience and the laser show was enchantingly beautiful. Just before midnight this would suddenly change. A young couple, with flickering red devil's horns on their heads, positioned themselves in front of us. We ourselves had flashing red hearts on our chests – maybe they were attracted by them.

Immediately afterwards the band started a new song and then we saw for the first time projections on the big screen – with texts projected almost too quickly to see: LUCIFER, DEVIL, SATAN, LUCIFER, DEVIL, SATAN et cetera. LUCIFER, DEVIL, SATAN et cetera. We looked at each other in astounishment and decided to remember as many details as possible. Now sequences of English words followed that resembled to a wishing list from hell: destruction, murder, rape, violence, destruction, death, chaos, war. Gruesome images of bombardments were shown. And exactly the same pictograms were used as in the Ketnet-trailer: man, woman. Man, woman, child. Man, womand, child, gun. Man shot dead, woman, child. Woman , child seperated. LUCIFER, DEVIL, SATAN. And then the projection of the "devil's number", 666. CHAOS CHAOS CHAOS.

An innocent beginning...A 'smoking gun'

It went on this way non-stop for about twenty minutes. It appeared whether we had to participate without our consent in a black ritual, which even added a sinister touch to the full moon. Over 90.000 innocent and ignorant people, most of them without any resistance because of party drugs and alcohol, were exposed to a hellish visual bombardment. What sick mind comes up with this?

At midnight the festival was at its end and the audience started going to the exits of the large terrain. The weather changed all of a sudden. The nice summer atmosphere was driven away by a cold wind and rain started pouring down. The crowd fled in panic to the busses, which were soon filled to the brim, but could not leave because of the complete CHAOS, CHAOS, CHAOS. That night we experienced panic and despair like never before. Finally we could slitter our way into a bus that opened its doors for a moment to let out vomiting youngsters. The traffic was completely stuck. One bus burned down to the ground, while alerted emergency services tried to comfort exhausted and frozen visitors with thermic blankets. The drive back to Amsterdam – a distance of only ten kilometres – lasted seven hours. This was front-page news in every newspaper the next day. TMF (now property of MTV) broadcasted the event live. Although we made a request with the Dancevalley organisation as well as TMF, we did not get any materials. Afterwards we spoke to a lot of other people present at the festival, but nobody could remember anything of the images projected there.

The 'solution' that was presented afterwards in order to prevent the chaos at Dancevalley 2001 for the next time, was to limit the amount of visitors for the next edition.

evil exist that threatens every man, woman and child of this great nation. We must take steps to ensure our domestic security and protect our homeland.' [24] Surprise: this was not Bush, but Hitler at the announcement of the Gestapo. This was scheduled after Hitler had made others set fire to the Reichstag and blamed the communists. I assume you can see the parallel with September 11. These kinds of lies and ways to manipulate public opinion can be easily recognized – if you know what to look for. I personnally see very little difference with what happened in Germany in the 1930's, except that the scale is now much larger and the technology is now more advanced. Probably nobody knows exactly the full scale of this mass manipulation. But in any case now nobody can deny there are subliminal messages in TV programs. As the Germans did in the 1930's, we also passively or actively allow certain groups to continue their power plays. This they achieve partly by brainwashing our children. When they grow up, they will not know better. The main actors in this play do not even hesitate to kill one million children in Iraq and call this 'to liberate them' or 'collateral damage', as Albright did [25] . The misuse of language to create confusion and control was called 'Newspeak' by George Orwell. [26] The pen is indeed mightier than the sword.

It is also possible that you became curious and want to know more or do something yourself. I passionately recommend David Icke's latest book 'Tales from the Time Loop' [27] to anyone who appreciates a different look on reality. But maybe you first need to dismantle to programmed belief 'you want truth, but you need lies' within yourself .... You are also welcome to contact me through my website. I hope you do something constructive with this information. But if the one and only effect of this article is that– when you catch yourself encouraging your children to watch more TV and to get themselves entertained – you make time and play with them ... then I'll be happy.

Happy ending?

"This transformation is not a maybe, it is not something that might happen or we hope will happen if things go according to 'plan'. It is happening now and the power and speed of the change will become ever more profound and obvious. The manipulation and polarisation you are seeing is the last desperate attempt of the 'Matrix' (the system of the dense 3D-frequency we are experiencing, that keeps itself alive by generating fear) to stop the inevitable, that's all. The transformation from prison to paradise is a done deal. We just need to act and claim our Self."

According to independant sources one million Iraqi children have been murdered since 1991 by structurally destroying the infrastructure, using clusterbombs on civilian targets and the use depleted uranium. In 1995 Iraq already became the land with the highest (an increase of 700%) percentage leukemia in the world. This is a blatant violation of the Geneva Convention.
